Main Duties including Type of work (Full Time/ Part Time):

1. In a part-time capacity, my most recent experience is cooperating al Ittihad University, Ras al-Khaima, during 2009/2010 by teaching English literature courses to students of the College of Education reading for the B. Ed degree in English
2. As per the above subject, I also taught English literature courses (drama, fiction, poetry) to students of the College of Arts
In Sudan during 1995 -1997:
3. Invited to act as external examiner for students on the M.A. English literature program, February, 1996. My assignment involved viva discussions with the candidates (they were 5 on this occasion) and making the appropriate recommendation about the award of the degree.
4. Invited as external examiner for English language finalists at Kassala University (Eastern Sudan), September 1996, as part of that university's policy of aligning the standards of their graduates with that of more established local universities.
5. Acted as visiting lecturer at two regional Sudanese universities (Dalenj University, in Kordofan, and Fasher University, in Darfur) on more than one occasion during 1995 – 1996. In this capacity, I taught English literature courses –at an intensive pace – for the benefit of students of Education and Arts colleges.
6. Acted as co-examiner for graduate students at a number of Khartoum-based universities (notably Omdurman University and Juba University (then)). The students in question were in the process of completing their Master's degrees by course and research.
